Executive Summary

The project Urban Street Haat: Charithra Veedhi Vending Stall is covered under the module Cultural Identity and Heritage within the Thiruvananthapuram Smart City Proposal (SCP). As a Phase I, The development of Sreechithra Park and the Charithra Veedhi road has been tendered and the execution work is on progress. According to SCP the scope indicated under this project is to propose the street to be developed and designed to house the existing street vendors. The 370m Taluk office road (Charithra Veedhi) will house a street craft bazaar. The estimated design cost of the project 'Urban Street Haat: Charithra Veedhi Food Vending Stall' is Rs. 47,52,001. The source of fund for this project is only through Smart City Grant.

Considering the tourism potential of the site, proximity to Sree Padmanabha Swamy Temple, surrounding heritage structure, inactivity of the space after office hours, etc. there is a need for development of this area. This development can be an urban transformation and a placemaking for the city.

The project 'Urban Street Haat : Charithra Veedhi' Food Vending Stall would envision to develop a landmark location for the city within the East Fort which will represent and celebrate the culture, art, tradition, heritage, cuisine and handicrafts of the state or more specifically the region. This should be considered as an urban transformation. This project can aims to provide food vending stall with good infrastructure and amenities and also for the people to enjoy traditional food and unwind. The recommended stretch for the project 'Urban Street Haat: Charithra Veedhi' Food Vending Stall is the 90m long stretch from S. Street road till the Taluk office .

After numerous discussions and consultation with relevant stakeholders and ascertaining certain constraints of the project site the suggested strategies of the project are:

- Development of a Food Street along the side of the road
- Converting the street into a Non-Vehicular Zone by initially pedestrianizing the street from 6pm-10pm
- The stretch is to be developed as a no parking zone

Project Cost:

The Total project cost including all the civil & electrical works are as follows;

DPR cost (Excluding GST) Rs 42,42,201.43 (Rupees Forty-two lakh forty-two thousand two hundred one and forty-three paisa only).

DPR cost (Including GST) Rs 47,52,001 (Rupees Forty-seven lakh fifty-two thousand and one rupees only)
